Perri's practice has focused on advising health systems, pharmaceutical companies, medical groups, and technology start-ups on a broad range of business, transactional, general corporate, licensing and regulatory matters for more than 19 years.

Her experience includes business formation and structuring, mergers and acquisitions, and drafting and negotiating a wide range of commercial contracts for health and life science organizations, including service and consulting agreements, clinical trial agreements, employment and independent contractor agreements, health plan agreements, and vendor agreements. In addition, she has experience advising clients on regulatory and compliance matters (including fraud and abuse issue, licensure, and corporate practice of medicine), and day to day business and operational issues, including developing and implementing policies and procedures.

A Boston native, Perri received her B.A. degree in Communications, cum laude, from the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, where she was the Student Commencement Speaker of her graduating class. She received her J.D. from the Loyola Law School in 2003, attending in the evening while working full time as a Health and Welfare Benefit Consultant. After obtaining her law degree, Perri spent the first part of her career practicing law as part of premier health care practices at Hooper Lundy & Bookman, McDermott Will & Emery and Katten Muchin Rosenman LLP, where she represented health care clients on a broad range of litigation, transactional and regulatory matters.
